

Amy Grabel

agrabel@workereducationprogram.org

I have been teaching adult education classes since 1996. I was the Technology Coordinator at United South End Settlements for five years and was responsible for integrating technology into the Literacy, pre-GED and GED curriculums.

For the past eight years, I have been teaching at the Worker Education Program. I have taught union workers from the healthcare, homecare, and food service fields. I design the class curriculum using the students' interests and goals; my preference for teaching project based learning; and the Massachusetts Curriculum Frameworks standards.